

PAINTING CATCHES ROYAL VISIT EYE

A painting which was part of a Duke of Edinburgh display in Toowoomba is now in England.

The display was at the entrance of the City Administration Building for the Duke of Edinburgh's visit to Toowoomba last Thursday.

The painting caught the eye of a member of the official party travelling with the Duke.

The painting, entitled Round the Corner, was by gold badge awardee Sharon Davson. It is an abstract oil in colour of the Australian sunlight.

A sale was negotiated and the painting left with the royal progress that afternoon.

A drawing by Sharon also was presented to the Duke of Edinburgh by Mr. Alan Morwood, area chairman of the Duke of Edinburgh award scheme, on behalf of the awardees.
